Real Appeal is based on the science of small steps that lead over time to big results. The essence of the science is to gradually present you with new bits of information about nutrition and exercise along with strategies about how to stay motivated to reach your personal goals. The information is taught in weekly online group sessions that last 30 minutes. Plus, Real Appeal puts you on the road to serious health benefits like the prevention of obesity-related diseases such as hypertension and Type 2 diabetes.
